SUPREME COURT DECIDES THE ACT WAS LEGAL.

THE DECISION WAS UNANIMOUS.

TWO JUDGES MAY NOW DRAW THEIR SALARIES IN PEACE.

All the Justices Concurred in the Opinion of Chief Justice Doster-Special Character of the Act Does Not Invalidate It.

Topeka, Kas., May 18.-(Special.) The state supreme court to-day handed down an opinion sustaining the law passed by the recent session of the legislature creat-ing two additional city courts for Kansas City, Kas. The law is declared to be constitutional in every point raised. The court holds that the legislature had a right te limit the jurisdiction of justices, and while the limitation to cases involving less than one dollar was probably rather se-vere and made the justice office one in name only, yet there was nothing in the constitution to prevent it. The decision was written by Chief Justice Doster and in it he took occasion to intimate what po-sition the court would take on all suits filed to test the constitutionality of any laws passed by the legislature. The other justices concurred in the opinion. The syllabus follows:

The organization of new courts and the "The organization of new courts and the limitations upon the jurisdiction of justices of the peace, are not two subjects; but are subdivisions of the same general subject and chapter 187, Laws of '97, entitled "An act creating two city courts in Kansas City township, Wyandotie county, Kas, and defining the jurisdiction thereof, and the powers and duties of the officersthereof and limiting the jurisdiction of the justices of the peace in said township," is not therefore repugnant to the constitutional provision which ordains that no bill shall contain more than one subject; nor has therefore repugnant to the constitutional provision which ordains that no bill shall contain more than one subject; nor has this court the power to declare it unconstitutional because of its being an act special in its nature, the object of which might be attained by a law of general nature and uniform operation throughout the state; nor is it unconstitutional because it excludes justices of the peace from jurisdiction in criminal cases, and also limits their jurisdiction in criminal cases, and also limits their jurisdiction in criminal cases and also limits their jurisdiction in criminal cases to the nominal sum of $1."

In discussing the provision of the law limiting the jurisdiction of justices of the peace, Judge Doster says:

"The legislature has prescribed the powers of a justice in (Kansas City) township by the enactment of a law otherwise unobjectionable. It has limited its powers, it is true, until little more remains of the office than the name. It has not, however, totally abolished such offices, and, while the bringing of a suit for the recovery of $1 is so far to the verge of improbability as to be only within the limits of the possibility, we cannot say that the office thereby ceases to exist.

"It is not denied that there are limits to legislative interference and jurisdiction of the courts which may not be exceeded. Should an excess of authority in this respect be undertaken this court will not hesitate to vindicate the judiciary branch of the government. Should the legislative countit any wanton and unreasonable exercise of its authority to regulate the jurisdiction of courts, the people will promptly rebuke the outrage and command the restoration of the power. Happily, therefore, there is no ground for the indulgences of a pessimentic fear of danger to the political system through assaults the tendent the principal system through assaults the tendent the political system through assaults the tendent than the course. ic fear of danger to the p cal system through assaults thereon by the popular branch. Rather, in the opinion of the writer, is danger to be feared from the exercise of an excess of authority by the courts themselves."

Mayor Marshman sent a message to the council list night vetoling the ordinance to vacate a part of Baird street in Armourdale to the Schwarzschild & Sulzberger Packing Company, on the ground that the title of the street was in the Kaw Valley Townste Company, and the city had no legal right to vacate it. Netwithstanding the fact that the legal department had reported that the claim of Albert Schnitz, for $1,500 damages by recison of being quarantined, was not a valid claim against the city, the committee on claims and accounts recommended a compromise by the city paying $86. The question of the city is lability was discussed at length, but final action on the committee's recommendation was deferred.

PASSENGER ASSOCIATION.

Local Representatives to Reorganize Kansas City Association To-day -Grain Inspection in Transit to Texas Points.

Chicago, May 15.—It seems unlikely that the Western Passenger Association will se-cure the membership it desires to have by June 1. The leaders have labored unceasingly to get the roads into the associabut despite all its work there are everal of the roads that have not yet be-ome members, and there seems to be no mediate prospect of their doing so. The Canadian Pacific has not yet signed the greement, and, as a consequence, neither the Great Western or Northern Pacific have joined the association. They have practically assured Chairman White, of the practically assured Chairman White, of the executive committee, that they will join as soon as the Canadian Pacific becomes a member, and they have not absolutely refused to sign the agreement in case the Canadian Pacific finally refuses to join. The Wisconsin Central and Great Northern are still hanging out, and they have given no indication of their intention. The general passenger agents of both these roads had a session with the executive committee last week, and promised to make their intentions known after a consultation with their superior officers. They have made no declaration as yet. It is generally believed by the members of the executive committee that the Southern Pacific will in a short time become a member.

the reorganization of the association, a secretary will be appointed by the executive committee of the Western Passenger Association. An election by the local organization would not be final, but would be subject to the approval of the executive committee of the larger association, which will also fix the amount of the salary the secretary shall receive.

The assault occurred in a vacant lot on Twenty-first street, between Brooklyn and Woodland avenues, while the little girl was on her way to school. She screamed as the negro bore her to the ground, and his fingers clasped her throat. Several women in the neighborhood heard the screams, witnessed the struggle, and ran to the scene. The negro escaped, Dora was carried into the home of Dr. I. M. Ridge, at Twenty-first street and Woodland avenue, where she remained until Monday afternoon, under medical treatment. She was hysterical, and unable to tell where she lived. Monday afternoon she recovered sufficiently to tell her name and address, and was removed to her home. She was much improved yesterday and able to be around. She gave a good description of her assailant to Detectives Halpin and Bryant, who were detailed to work on the case yesterday.

It was in this same pasture that Gus Alcorn attempted to assault a little white girl about a year ago, and received a sentence of three years in the penitentiary for it.

should not be called repairs; it is simply perfecting the plant and replacing imperfect parts that cannot be detected when the plant is put in." D. S. Young, a real estate man from Kansas City, Kas., was called to tell the value of the tracts of land in the stock yards. According to his estimate, the land in the main yards was worth $50,000 to $55,000 per acre; the north yard, $50,000 to $55,000 per acre; the north yard, $50,000 the James street yards, $50,000, and the low ground on the east side of the river next to the yards, $25,000 per acre. Mr. Young was questioned closely by Mr. Boyle about individual sales there that fixed those values, He referred to one sale of a quarter of an acre sold to Swift for $12,000. This was the triangle occupied by the Hopkins planing mill, a piece of land that Swift was required to have and on which an inflated value was placed, which the packer was forced to pay, just as a thrifty man on Bell street made the Stock Yards Company pay $1,000 per front foot when the market price was but $100 per front foot. The Hopkins sale was freely discussed at the time it was made. Mr. Young was a member of the condemnation jury on the Rock Island right of way and said they paid prices up to $1,500 per lot, but that was not through the most valuable portion of the city. "When you say the main part of the stock yards is worth $50,000 to $60,000 per acre, how do you fix that value?" the witness was asked. "I mean the land for the purpose for which it is used," was the answer. Mr. Charles K. Wells, who has been dealing in real estate in Kansas City, Kas, for a number of years, said he owned land here worth $125 per front foot, or $1,000 per acre. Its value at that figure was prospective and was hassed on the limited supply and the nearness to the yards and packing houses. The company's attorneys wanted to prove by Mr. Wells that it would be impossible for any one to buy any considerable tract down there at that price or less, but Judge Clark ruled the question out. office buildings in the city, and was prepared to contract for any kind of buildings needed.

At the request of the company he had made a careful inspection of all the buildings. The Exchange building, he said, stood at a present value of $22,857.41; the electric light and power house, $43,22.48; horse and make barn, $85,94.32; the other mule barn, $19,174.53; Sparks' barn, $11,867.10; hay barns, $19,174.53; Sparks' barn, $11,867.10; hay barns, $1,679.78 each; sixteen scale houses, $25,962.16. The total value of these and other buildings combined reached $555,264.80. Taking the entire plant, buildings, fences and improvements, it would cost an average of 10 percent to keep them in repair. Some parts of the plant subjected to hard wear would require as much as 20 or 25 per cent. The pens, sheds and all other buildings connected with the yard were in good condition, well suited to the purpose. He considered all of the buildings as good as new, as the system of repairs maintained there kept the buildings all in first-ciass condition.

Mr. D. W. Peirson, chief engineer of the water works department of the city, was called as an expert to tell of the value of various sizes, which he valued at $5,89. It would cost that sum, he said, to put in the system embraces 3,140 feet of pipe of various sizes, which he valued at $5,89. old school of nauseating and drastic remedies? A few years ago Professor Munyon, a man of giant intellect, benevolent purposes and determined character, unfolded out.

At the suggestion of Attorney Boyle, the question of limiting the number of experts on values of the land came up. The company wanted to use ten to fix the value of all the plant, with half a dozen to tell of values of certain portions. Judge Clark did not fix a number, but counseled the attorneys for both sides to be as expeditious as resulting. his new school of medicine through the medium of the press to the public. Confident in the honesty of his mission, he asked the citizens of the United States to test his remedies "absolutely free," and thereby made the public a jury to decide upon their merits. President Graham declared that he would not vote to enter into a contract with the Mctropolitan Water Company, of Kansas City, Kas, to furnish water to it at the proposed reduced rate of $12.50 per million gallens. Members Baer and Youmans were in favor of making the contract. They said that if it was not made the Metropolitan company would build a reservoir of its own, from which it would pump water, and the city would then loss $19,900 a year. President Graham said the city would soon have enough consumers to take all the water that it could supply.

President Graham said the city would soon have enough consumers to take all the water that it could supply.

G. R. Wing, superintendent of the Metropolitan company, was present during the discussion. He wanted the board to enter into the proposed contract, but President Graham and Member Hardesty prevented action. The matter then went over until the next meeting.

Chief Hale recommended to the board that a cistern of 5,000 barrels' capacity be constructed and sunk at the Junction, to be used by the fire department when needed.

The board considered the majority petition of property owners on Broadway, from Fourteenth to Sixteenth street, for paving that thoroughfare with Trinidad lake asphalt. President Graham made the point that the petition, if approved, would shut out competition in the paving of the street, and this would be in violation of a rule adopted by the board. A discussion followed, which was ended by referring the matter to the city counselor for an opinion as to the right of the board to reject a majority petition.
